1.3 Parameters and Statistics Parameters are numerical descriptive measures corresponding to populations. Since the population is not actually observed, the parameters are considered unknown constants. Statistical inferential methods can be used to make statements (or inferences) concerning the unknown parameters, based on the sample data.

Applied Statistical Methods - Department of Statistics

The approach of this Handbook is to present commonly used steps and formulas in statistics, provide an example of how to conduct the calculations by hand, and then an example of software output. The software output has annotated interpretations. This approach connects classically taught statistics with statistical software output.
